

The Adam Smith Seminar – SS2010

VMP 5, Room 0079, Tuesdays, 18:00–20:00

The Adam Smith Seminar is an interdisciplinary research seminar for the presentation of new work in economics, politics, and philosophy. The Atmosphere is open and informal.

- 13.04.10 Hannu Nurmi, University of Turku
Choosing the method of choosing
- 20.04.10 Heta Gylling, University of Helsinki
Human Rights - any sense or simply nonsense?
- 27.04.10 Timo Airaksinen, University of Helsinki
Personal Safety and the Feeling of Security
- 30.04.10 --Special Friday Edition, 16-18h, VMP 5, Room 0079--
Arye Hillman, Bar-Ilan University
Expressive behavior in economics and politics
- 04.05.10 Philipp Schliffke, University of Hamburg
Long-Run Stability of Reciprocal Trust
- 11.05.10 Annamari Vitikainen, University of Helsinki
Autonomy Based Arguments for Multiculturalism
- 18.05.10 Marlies Ahlert, Martin Luther University, Halle-Wittenberg
A new Approach to Procedural Freedom in Game Forms
- 01.06.10 Jasmin Kominek, University of Hamburg title to be announced
- 08.06.10 Frank Steffen, University of Liverpool
Measuring Power and Satisfaction in Societies with Opinion Leaders
- 15.06.10 Peter Skott, University of Massachusetts
Dynamic patterns of accumulation and income distribution
- 22.06.10 Tomas Kavaliauskas, Vytautas Magnus University, Kaunas
Identity Transformations of Central Europe after 1989 and Postsoviet Socioeconomic Specifics
- 29.06.10 Anke Gerber, University of Hamburg
Preference Reversals in Intertemporal Choice
- 06.07.10 Jana Stöver, Hamburg Institute of International Economics
How Important Is Natural Capital?